About the Program

For more than 50 years, the IBA Ag Clinic has served as one of the largest agricultural banking conferences in the country. Sponsored in cooperation with the Department of Agricultural Economics at Purdue University, the clinic provides a wide range of general and concurrent sessions addressing the most current issues facing agricultural lenders. The clinic also provides an excellent opportunity for attendees to interact with more than 250 senior lenders and agricultural leaders from throughout the region.

Who Should Attend

The annual Ag Clinic is a must for all loan officers, credit analysts, loan review personnel and senior management who are interested in improving the quality of agricultural lending decisions within their institutions.

This year's IBA Ag Clinic is a must for any banker that wants to learn about the most recent changes and events impacting their farmer and agribusiness customers.

Continuing the practice started in 2005, several sessions have been specifically designed to be of interest to farmers and borrowers. Agricultural lenders are strongly encouraged to invite their clients to join them for this enjoyable and educational event. This is an outstanding opportunity to add value to your client relationship. A special fee is available for IBA members who wish to bring a guest(s).
