S. Joe DeHaven, retired CEO of the Indiana Bankers Association, was honored by the Indiana Bankers Association (IBA) as a Leader in Banking Excellence at an awards ceremony held on Aug. 3. The leadership award, initiated this year, recognizes exceptional bankers who have positively impacted Indiana banks and the communities they serve. Along with DeHaven, eight other members of the Indiana banking community were named to the inaugural class of Leaders in Banking Excellence.

The awards ceremony took place at the IBA offices in Indianapolis, with presentations from dignitaries including Congressman Trey Hollingsworth; Director Thomas C. Fite, Indiana Department of Financial Institutions; Senators Rodric Bray and Travis Holdman; IBA Chairman Clay W. Ewing, German American Bank, Jasper; and IBA President and CEO Amber R. Van Til. The ceremony culminated with the showing of the IBA Leaders in Banking Excellence wall, where plaques representing each honoree are to remain on permanent display.

The plaque for Mr. DeHaven reads as follows:

S. Joe DeHaven led the Indiana Bankers Association through vibrant growth before retiring in 2016 as CEO, a position he held since 2007. He additionally served for several years as IBA president. DeHaven began his career in 1970 with Merchants National Bank of Muncie, and in 1990 he joined the Community Bankers Association of Indiana as president and CEO, later guiding the successful merger of the CBAI and the IBA. His leadership has included advisory positions with the American Bankers Association, the Independent Community Bankers of America and the Herbert V. Prochnow Educational Foundation. A graduate of Ball State University and of the Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin, DeHaven was named Association Executive of the Year by the Indiana Society of Association Executives in 2010 and honored as a Sagamore of the Wabash in 2017.
